ASCS Today

By Tom Conrad

1978 Agricultural Conservation Program- The signup for the 1978 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) begins on January 16, 1978 and will run through Feb. 15, 1978. A newsletter has been sent to all farmers in the county explaining the program. If you are interested in performing conservation work on your farm that would not be done without cost-share assistance, you will want to read the practices and provisions of the program in the newsletter, and sign up at the ASCS office.

1978 Forestry Incentives Program - The signup period for the 1978 Forestry Incentives Program (FIP) began on Jan. 3, 1978 and will run through Jan. 31, 1978. Provisions of this program are also in the newsletter that has been sent out. If you are interested in signing up under the FIP check the newsletter for provisions, and contact us at the ASCS office or Wayne Bowman of the Virginia Division of Forestry.

Crop and Land Use Acreages for 1977 - The final date for reporting 1977 crop and land use acreages is January 16, 1978. If you have not reported or completed reporting you have mailed notification asking you to report. Please if you haven't reported, do so by the 16th. These acreages will be used for the next four years as determined under the 1977 Food and Agricultural Act. If you do not report, your farm will be considered to have zero planted acreage and will be ineligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and disaster payments over the next four years.

ASCS Explains Grain Reserve Program - Farmers are eligible to participate in the grain reserve program when their 1976 and 1977 crop loans mature. Upon the maturity of these loans, farmers can sign up for the three-year reserve program and receive advance storage payments of 20 cents per bushel for wheat, corn sorghum and barley, and 15 cents per bushel for oats.

The goal is a feed grain reserve containing nearly 502 million bushels of corn, almost 74 million bushels of sorghum, over 93 million bushels of oats and slightly more than 56 million bushels of barley.

Under the program, feed grain farmers can repay the loan, sell the commodity and keep earned storage payments when the national average rate for their commodity or when their contract expires. USDA will notify farmers when the release level is reached. The Department of Agriculture will call in all feed grain loans when the market price hits 140 percent of the current national average loan rate. For wheat, the release level is 140 percent and the call level is 175 percent.

Letter To Town Manager Requires Enforcement of Law

Letter To Town Manager Requires Enforcement of Law

Mr. William R. Britton
Town Manager
Town of Appomattox
Appomattox, Virginia 24522

Dear Mr. Britton:

It has been brought to my attention on several occasions that a traffic hazard exists on Route 131 thru the Town of Appomattox as a result of motorists parking on the wrong side of the roadway. The problem exists throughout the portion of Route 131 that was recently reconstructed but appears to be much worse in the vicinity of the Post Office.

I have personally observed this situation on two (2) or three (3) occasions and I am convinced that this total disregard for the law is creating a serious problem that may lead to accidents and I am hopeful that the town can eliminate the problem through increased enforcement.

The Code of Virginia states "Wherever a highway is marked with double traffic lines consisting of two [2] immediately adjacent solid lines, no vehicle shall be driven to the left of such lines, except that it shall be lawful to make a left turn for the purpose of entering or leaving a public, private or commercial road or entrance."

Your assistance in this matter would be appreciated and it is requested that you advise us as to what remedial action is taken and the results of same.

Sincerely yours,
B. C. Pierce
District Traffic Engineer

At the Monday night meeting of the Appomattox Town Council approval was given for town police to enforce this law effective immediately.

CPR Saves A Life

CPR board into position, still reassuring the lady. In a matter of seconds, not the usual three minute period of time, CCU beeped for us to pick up phone and we were told to "Get the patient to hospital soon as possible, watch her closely, you cold be in for trouble!"

"We were!"

Twenty-two miles from the hospital the victim's hands suddenly dropped down, her head fell back, she was in cardiac arrest - the monitor showed that dreaded straight line.

CPR, the witnessed arrest method, was started immediately. We contacted the hospital and were told by the nurse to 'get to work,' she detected no response. Work, we did! In the 105 degree outside temperature, our air conditioning in the ambulance did little good but we worked on her, really worked.

As we continued CPR, our driver, Ray Noble, called ahead to ask for help and, luckily, ten miles up the road we picked up one member from Concord Rescue Squad to assist in our efforts to maintain proper sequence in our compressions and ventilations. He was a tremendous help, as you all know CPR is very tiring, in fact exhausting after a period of time. As we continued on to the hospital the CCU nurse buzzed us on the phone again and said 'you may as well give it up, you've lost her.' The eyes were not dilated, so we said we would not give up, we'd give CPR all the way. The nurse agreed and hung up the phone, no more contact with the hospital.

Nineteen minutes after the starting of CPR, we arrived at the hospital and were amazed to find that their CPR alert team had not been notified, but found out that the Emergency Room staff had been told that we would arrive there but most likely it would be too late.

The Emergency Room doctor and staff on duty quickly realized that there was a chance and immediately they continued the CPR and soon she was cardioverted to a sinus rhythm.

Very, very exhausted we sat in the hall to rest for a few minutes then went out the door to our ambulance to clean up, make the stretcher and have things ready for our next call when we got back to home base. Before we were finished a nurse came running out and told us the lady was alert and was actually 'talking' one more time. Our members went back into the Emergency Room and were recognized by the lady. She was happy to see familiar faces, we were happy to see her alive!

Two days later, we received a personal letter from her doctor and would like to share it with you. We quote:

"Yesterday one of your units transported a patient of mine, Mrs. Grace Cobb (of Pamplin), to Lynchburg General Hospital. Mrs. Cobb had suffered an acute myocardial infraction and was being monitored by the telemetry unit at Virginia Baptist Hospital. Approximately twenty minutes from Lynchburg she went into ventricular fibrillation and she received successful CPR by your unit and arrived at Lynchburg General Hospital where she was cardioverted to a sinus rhythm.

"As of now Mrs. Cobb is doing quite well and I want to compliment those members of your squad who operated the CPR team. I did not get to see them before they left the hospital but I think they should know that in my opinion their job was outstanding and saved Mrs. Cobb's life. I have checked the monitor at Virginia Baptist Hospital and the CPR was carried out for a total of nineteen minutes and in view of the fact that the patient sustained no brain damage is a testimony to the efficiency of the CPR operation. The members of this unit and your squad is to be complimented for this outstanding work.

Best wishes for continued success."

Now you know the patient was Mrs. Cobb and that she returned home within a few weeks and is doing fine, we want you to know, also, that the CPR team consisted of Nellie Almond and Harry Ferguson, Jr. of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad, and James Cassidy, Concord Rescue Squad, who was picked up near Concord.

All members of the Appomattox County Rescue Squad have been trained and are qualified to give CPR as are most members of area rescue squads. It is good to know that, if needed, you can easily call on members of nearby squads for assistance and know that they have the same knowledge and training and can work well in any given situation.

"FOUR GENERATIONS SHARE CHRISTMAS"

Mrs. Eugene Bryant entertained with a Christmas Eve supper for her family at their home. Four generations were present for the evening. They are Mrs. Della Thomas, Mrs. Landon E. Bryant, Mrs. Judy B. Franklin and Little Jennifer Lynn Franklin, all of Vera.

discussion. Several of the seminars are onsite briefings at Federal agencies and on Capitol Hill The curriculum focuses upon the nature of the Federal institutions and decision-making processes that, combined with political power, are responsible for our national public policies. The goal of the Program is to foster leadership potential and civic responsibility among student leaders by exposing them to the dynamics of our democratic system at its nucleus - Washington, D.C.

Chartered in 1965 as a nonprofit, educational program, Presidential Classroom has provided more than 15,000 young people with firsthand exposure to prominent government leaders and key observers of the Washington scene. Among past speakers have been Senators, Representatives, Justices of the Supreme Court, Cabinet Secretaries, members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, foreign ambassadors, White House staff, news media personnel and high-level executives from many different Federal agencies and the private sector.

Complementing the formal learning experience of the Program is the opportunity for students to explore the geographic, cultural and socio-economic diversity of their peers in the National Student Body. Sharing a common interest in leadership and government, the students represent a wide spectrum of American society and provide one another with valuable perspectives on our national diversity.

Presidential Classroom is a private organization whose educational activities are strictly nonpartisan; its programs cannot be used to influence government legislation or policies, nor to organize opinion on behalf of any governmental or private objective.
